BANKER, FORMER LEGISLATOR, IS DEAD ON MONDAY

Charles L. Longsdorf, 80-year-old Head Of Biglerville Bank, Dies.

WELL-KNOWN IN ADAMS COUNTY

Prominent banker for 28 years and former state legislator from Adams county, Charles L. Longsdorf, 80-year-old dean of Biglerville's business men, died at the home of his son, Paul W. Longsdorf, at Elkins Park, near Philadelphia, Monday. Mr. Longsdorf, who at the time of his death was president of the Biglerville National bank, had been ill since he celebrated his 80th birthday anniversary in Philadelphia on June 15. Death was caused by uraemic poisoning.

Born in Williamsport, Pennsylvania, June 15, 1851, the son of the Rev. Alexander and Rebecca (Keesling) Longsdorf, a minister of the Evangelical association, he spent his early years with his parents in Centre county where he attended the Union seminary at New Berlin for one year at the age of 14.

Came To County In 1865
His parents later removed to Adams county in 1865 where Mr. Longsdorf attended the Bendersville high school. He later became a clerk in the store of Jacob Pitzer and son at Bendersville, remaining with them for 18 months. Outside of 18 months spent in Harrisburg where he operated a green grocery, Mr. Longsdorf has spent all his life in Adams county.

He married Miss Elizabeth Wright, a daughter of Hiram and Alice Wright, Adams county, and became interested in the nursery business and fruit growing. He owned and operated one of the largest nurseries in Adams county, the Oak Hill nursery near Philadelphia, for 33 years, selling it in 1910 and moving into Biglerville where he resided until his death.

He was a republican in politics and became interested in Menallen township affairs early in his career being a school director for 24 years. He was elected state legislator from Adams county in 1905 and served one term in the state assembly.

Active In Banking
In 1903 he became actively interested in banking when he was elected a director of the Gettysburg National bank at Gettysburg which office he held until he retired three years ago. Two years after joining the board of directors of the bank here, he became a director and president of the Biglerville National bank which post he continued in until his death. Under his management, the Biglerville bank became one of the most successful banking institutions in Adams county. He is also vice president and manager of the Adams county mutual fire insurance company. He was also active in county welfare work and members of his family revealed that he had many secret philanthropies.

Mr. Longsdorf's wife preceded him in death in 1917.
He is survived by the following children: Mrs. H. S. Raffensperger, Arentsville; Paul W. Longsdorf, Elkins Park; Miss Julia K. Longsdorf, Philadelphia, and Charles S. Longsdorf, York.

Funeral services from his home in Biglerville Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock, the Rev. H. W. Sternat, Biglerville, officiating, with interment in the Biglerville cemetery.

Humidity Prevents Grasshopper Plague

Although reports of a grasshopper invasion have come from parts of Dauphin county, Pennsylvania farmers have little to fear from a serious or prolonged onslaught of the pests, Dr. T. L. Guyton, chief entomologist of the state department of agriculture's bureau of plant industry, said Monday.

The humidity of the eastern states encourages a fungus disease that kills off the grasshoppers that swarm too far afield for food from their native hills in the Rockies, Doctor Guyton said.

Last year, the entomologist said, conditions in Pennsylvania were more favorable to a grasshopper invasion, and during the long drought many of the insects were found in Chester, Fulton, Franklin and Adams counties. This year the return of normal humidity makes great damage from the pests extremely unlikely.

Edison Better

Thomas A. Edison, noted inventor, was reported to be much improved today although not altogether out of danger after collapsing Saturday at his home in Orange, New Jersey.

Miss Sara Black Finishes Course

Miss Sara Black, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George P. Black, Baltimore street, has returned from Evanston, Illinois, where she recently completed a year's post graduate course at Northwestern university. She received her master's degree from that university.

Miss Black expects to teach in the Cheltenham high school, near Philadelphia, beginning in September.

FIND ACCIDENT UNAVOIDABLE

Jury Hears Pittsburgh Youth Testify To Car Making Left Turn.

A verdict of accidental death was returned by a coroner's jury at the inquest, Monday afternoon, into the death of Thomas J. Ingram, son of a prominent Pittsburgh family, who was killed instantly in an automobile crash, near Cashtown, last Tuesday morning.

Dr. Edgar A. Miller and District Attorney John P. Butt conducted the inquest at the scene of the accident, eight witnesses being heard.

The two most important witnesses were Lee V. Dauler, Pittsburgh, who was driving Ingram's roadster, and Harry E. Riddemoser, McKnightstown, driver of the other car which figured in the crash.

Saw Car Turning
Dauler, who was admitted to the Warner hospital after the accident and discharged on Monday, said he was traveling between 45 and 50 miles an hour when he noticed Riddemoser's car start to make a left turn from the Lincoln highway near the home of John T. Riggeal.

The youth said he drove to the extreme right of the highway in an effort to run around the other car, but was unsuccessful.

Riddemoser denied he was making a left turn.

To the Editor of The Times:

Beverly Hills, Calif., Aug. 4.—No news any more in depression and no more news than truth in optimistic predictions. We not only cured our "big men" from predicting, but we just about cured them from thinking they were "big." Debts are about all canceled but our own. Heat is dying out; grasshoppers are starving out. Nobody running for president on either side in '32 but Mr. Hoover, and even he may lose his passion for punishment by then, so it just looks like nothing ever happens in our country but interest and taxes.

Son Arrested When Father Asks Police About Inquiry Into Theft

William F. Lerew, 19, And Eugene Roth, 16, Arrested When Tread Of Latter's Car Fits Marks Left In Road Near Lerew Home At Aspers.

C. B. Lerew, Aspers R. 2, and his son, William F. Lerew, 19, came to the local sub-station of the state police Monday to inquire about the progress being made of an investigation into a burglary at the Lerew home on Saturday night, July 25.

As a result of the visit, the younger Lerew was arrested, charged with the theft and in an alleged confession he implicated Eugene Roth, 16, York street. Roth was arrested later and both were charged with breaking, entering and larceny, waived a preliminary hearing and were released under $500 each for the August term of court.

Fifty-six dollars was taken from a cedar chest at the Lerew home on the evening of July 25, and Corporal Joseph Holochwest and Constable George B. Aughinbaugh, who were conducting the investigation, suspected young Lerew.

Tire Tread a Clue
In the course of the officers' investigation, they learned that a car that visited the Lerew home on the night of the burglary had a certain make of tires on the rear. Roth was seen in his car at Mud Hill, not far from the Lerew home, on the night of the robbery. The rear tires on Roth's machine corresponded with the tracks found by the officers at the Lerew home, according to the state police.

The officers had about completed their investigation and would have made the arrests within a few days had not C. B. Lerew and his son appeared at headquarters on Monday.

Both Lerew, who is on probation from the Adams county court on a charge of stealing a radio receiving set from Brough's garage at Aspers in July, 1930, and Roth are said to have signed confessions in which each blames the other for suggesting the crime.

Dug Up Key
According to Roth's alleged confession, Lerew came to his home on the evening of July 25 and asked him if he wanted to make $5 by driving him to his home. Roth said he agreed. When the youths reached the Lerew home, Roth says Lerew dug up a key he had buried in the yard and opened the door.

They then went upstairs and forced the lock on a cedar chest, taking a pocketbook, containing $56, which Roth says Lerew gave to him. Lerew asked Roth to break a window pane to make it appear as though the house had been broken into, but Roth says he declined. (Continued on Page Two)

RESIDENTS MUST CLEAN UP WEEDS

Burgess Starts Campaign Against Breeding Spots For Mosquitoes.

In a campaign to clean up local weed patches that are proving excellent breeding places for mosquitoes, Burgess C. A. Heiges notified a dozen or more property owners in Gettysburg whose lots are covered with tall, rank weeds to clean them up within a week or the borough will.

"The request was made a public health ordinance that the borough has, which declares that anything detrimental to the public health is a nuisance," explained Burgess Heiges today in announcing the campaign which has been underway for several days.

"The property owners who do not clean up, and we expect that there will be a few, will have it done for them by the borough. Only if the work is done by the borough, it will cost the property owner, under the ordinance, the cost of the work plus a 25 per cent fee above that. If they refuse to pay, that charge becomes a lien against their property," he added.

The Burgess said the week is nearly up in some cases and that unless these property owners utilize the time left, borough laborers will be put on the job.

Weeds on vacant lots always provide an excellent place for insects of all kinds to breed as well as mosquitoes, it was pointed out.

11-YEAR-OLDBOY KILLS SISTER, 7

Franklin County Lad Goes Hunting Groundhog; Fires At Girl.

An 11-year-old boy walked into his mother's kitchen at Upton, near Chambersburg, Monday afternoon, leveled a double-barreled shotgun at his 7-year-old sister and shot the girl dead.

Harold Burkholder, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Burkholder, who have a truck farm near Upton, about fifteen miles southwest of Chambersburg, went groundhog hunting with his father's twelve-gauge shotgun about 11:45 a. m. Unsuccessful, he returned about 1 o'clock and ran into the house his sister, Vera, was there alone.

A few minutes later the mother of the two children, hanging clothes on a line in the backyard, heard the boy say:

"Now I'll get the groundhog."

Then the mother heard the gun discharge.

"Didn't Mean To," He Says
The woman hurried to the kitchen, where she found her daughter lying dead on the floor. The shotgun charge struck the child in the neck and killed her. "I didn't mean to kill her, but the devil must have been in me," the boy told Franklin county Coroner S. D. Shull, of Chambersburg.

The coroner investigated, then turned the case over to District At-

APPROVE PLAN FOR AIRPORT

Chamber Of Commerce Membership Acts On Report Monday.

The Chamber of Commerce, at a small membership meeting at the Hotel Gettysburg annex, Monday evening, approved the proposal of the aeronautics committee to acquire an airport for Gettysburg.

At the same time, the membership endorsed a proposal to sell bonds, the proceeds of which would be used to purchase the land necessary for the airport and place it in condition.

The membership also went on record as in favor of extending an invitation to the G. A. R. to hold its 1932 national encampment in Gettysburg.

As a result of the resolution to extend the invitation to the G. A. R., P. W. Stallsmith and Henry M. Schaff went to Philadelphia today to enlist the aid of the state officers of the G. A. R. in bringing the 1932 national convention to Gettysburg.

In the absence of Dr. Henry W. A. Hanson, president of the Chamber of Commerce, D. C. Stallsmith presided.

JOHN SCHWARTZ DIES ON MONDAY

Retired Farmer Who Heard Lincoln Make His Address Is Dead.

John Schwartz, 78, a retired farmer, who as a boy heard Lincoln deliver his famous Gettysburg address at the dedication of the national cemetery here on November 19, 1931, died at his home at Round Top at 8 o'clock Monday evening, of complications. He was a lifelong resident of Adams county.

In his early life, Mr. Schwartz taught school in the county, and later was a farmer, retiring in 1917 and moving to his present home in Round Top.

Mr. Schwartz was married to Miss Anna Mary Plank on March 25, 1873, who survives, together with the following sons and daughters:

Mrs. Thomas Sheely, of White Hall; Mrs. Morris Bishop, Harrisburg; Mrs. O. B. Sharets, Mrs. John W. Epley and Mrs. Emory A. Fox, all of Cumberland township; Howard Schwartz, Mt. Joy township, and Mrs. Walter D. Spangler, of Chicago. Twenty-four grandchildren, nine great grandchildren; one sister, Mrs. Samuel Allison, Gettysburg, and two brothers, David Schwartz, near Littlestown, and Reuben Schwartz, near Gettysburg, also survive.

He was a life-long member of the Lutheran church.

Funeral services at the home Thursday morning at 9 o'clock, interment in Evergreen cemetery.

SEEKS DAMAGES IN AUTO CRASH

William G. Rupp, Hanover, Files Action To Get $465 Claim.

An action in trespass for $465 damages was entered this morning in the office of S. L. Allison, prothonotary, by William G. Rupp, Hanover, against Clarence K. Hicks, Chambersburg, as the result of an automobile accident on the Baltimore road, one mile north of Littlestown, on May 3.

In the statement of claim, Rupp states he was traveling south on the Gettysburg-Littlestown road, and that Hicks was traveling north. Rupp alleges Hicks' car was traveling on the wrong side of the highway and at high speed, without due regard for the rights of other users of the highway.

W. Clarence Sheely, Gettysburg attorney, represents Rupp in the action.

"More For Dollar" Sales Day Slogan

"More for your dollar than ever before" might well be the slogan of the score or more Gettysburg merchants who are preparing for the semi-annual sales day event in Gettysburg Saturday. Large stocks of fine merchandise will be placed on sale at unusually attractive prices in the mid-summer Dollar Day sponsored by advertisers in The Gettysburg Times.

A yellow banner will be the official sign of the merchants participating, a list of which will be made public this week. The event will be for one day only and buyers are advised to watch the columns of The Gettysburg Times for a special section advertising the attractive bargains available on Saturday in local stores.

Large crowds of customers annually throng Gettysburg from a wide radius on Dollar Day and Saturday is not expected to be an exception.

Warning To Merchants!

An Editorial

A slick-tongue salesman from "Noo York," with a questionable advertising scheme through which to garner the hard earned dollars of Gettysburg merchants, was somewhat amazed when he began his swift round of the town today for a quick and easy "clean-up" to learn that the business people of Gettysburg aren't so gullible as merchants may be in some other "hick" towns.

Most local business people have been caught too often by get-rich-quick, high-sounding-phrased advertising schemes such as "Red Arrow" and the like, which have left local merchants "holding the sack" after glib word artists had obtained a group of names on the dotted lines and walked away with the "down payment," leaving little except work and disillusionment to the local merchants in order to keep faith with their day-in and day-out customers.

Outsiders with questionable schemes have long since learned that Adams county buyers "ain't so dumb" and can't be stamped into a buyers rush simply because a new and novel scheme is dangled in front of their noses. They insist upon established sales customs and honest-to-goodness bargains, without a lot of thrilling schemes or sugar-coated drops, and Gettysburg merchants as a whole have learned to give genuine values straight from the shoulder and tell the people through mediums in which they have been accustomed to look for real store news.

Yes, in Gettysburg, the "sucker" crop among merchants has dwindled to nil—as the latest solicitor today learned. They simply don't pull the cork under any longer. Instead, they investigate carefully and proceed cautiously. Which is for the best of all concerned.

Open resentment on the part of theatre patrons in metropolitan cities against "being compelled to pay theatre admission prices to look at advertisements" has prompted theatre owners and managers to discontinue this new scheme of making money, according to prominent theatre trade papers. Likewise, motion picture producers who for a brief time wove intriguing plots and laugh-

Phantom Burglar Robs Butt Office Of Silver Plate Valued At $1500

Tall Thin Man Wearing Panama Hunted By Police As Time Of Burglary Is Fixed By District Attorney John Butt Between 12 And 1 On Monday.

SAFE RIFLED BY THIEF WHO LEAVES NO FINGERPRINTS; 11TH BURGLARY

Between $1,000 and $1,500 worth of solid table silver and jewelry was stolen from the safe in the office of District Attorney John P. Butt on the second floor of the Compiler building, Baltimore street, between noon and 1 o'clock Monday afternoon.

The robbery, attributed to Gettysburg's phantom apartment house burglar, who has committed ten similar thefts within the past year, was not discovered until 4 o'clock Monday afternoon when Mr. Butt returned from attending an inquest.

The table silver, including knives, forks, spoons of various kinds, had been in the Butt family for many years. The exact number of pieces taken is not known to Mr. Butt, but he has telegraphed his sister for a list of the silver.

Lindberghs Are Safe At Baker Lake

Ottawa, Aug. 4 (AP)—The wall of static which had separated Charles A. Lindbergh and his wife from the outer world for many hours crumbled today and it was learned that they had landed at Baker Lake at 5 o'clock E. S. T. Monday afternoon and were planning to take off for Hunter Bay sometime today.

Communication was established with Baker Lake by wireless officials of the marine department and anxiety concerning the famous fliers was set at rest.

Hunter Bay, the next stopping place of the Lindberghs, is 650 miles west of Baker Lake and is within 20 miles of the Arctic Circle.

MRS. LEVAN DIES ON HER BIRTHDAY

Wife Of Councilman Is Dead After Operation For Ulcers.

Mrs. Bessie M. LeVan, who would have observed her forty-fifth birthday anniversary today, died at the West Side sanitarium, York, at 2:30 o'clock, Monday afternoon, following an operation last Thursday for stomach ulcers.

Mrs. LeVan, wife of A. R. LeVan, Baltimore street plumber and councilman from the third ward, was born near Orrtanna and spent her early life in that vicinity. Her maiden name was Miss Bessie M. Baker.

She was married to Mr. LeVan March 4, 1910.

She was the oldest daughter of Mrs. Sara M. Baker and the late P. A. Baker.

Surviving are her husband and one son, A. LeRoy LeVan, at home; her mother, Mrs. Sara M. Baker, Breckenridge street; one sister, Miss Eva A. Baker, at home; and one brother, Howard H. Baker, near Orrtanna.

She was a member of St. James' Lutheran church.

Funeral services from the home, 271 Baltimore street, at 2 o'clock, Thursday afternoon, the Rev. Earl J. Bowman officiating. Interment in Evergreen cemetery.

Show Trotting Harness Horses At Hanover Farms In Pictures

Fastest And Most Valuable Horses In Country Are Depicted In Short Film At Majestic Theatre; Scenes Taken In Adams County.

"Lightnin' in Harness," a moving picture filmed at the Hanover shoe farms, near Littlestown, in Adams county, in June, is part of the program at the Majestic theatre. The reel deals with the breeding and training of trotting horses and was directed by George T. James, of the Imperial stables of Newark, New Jersey. It is a sound picture and an informative verbal description is given of the various scenes, many of which are familiar to local residents.

Some striking scenes of the famous brood mares of the Hanover shoe farms with their colts as well as the richly bred yearlings caught by the camera are shown upon the screen.

Several of the youngsters pose beautifully while another is so busy enjoying his "meal" that he cannot be disturbed by such a small thing as a movie camera grinding away at him.

Presently, a large group of yearlings rush by and the audience is told by the speaker to watch carefully in an effort to pick out the winner of the Hambletonian in 1933.

In introducing the picture, the announcer declares that the scenes at the farms show horses valued at a million dollars.

Action Scenes On Track

Several action scenes on the track add greatly to the picture. The camera caught Peter Manning, 1:56 1/4, world's champion trotter of all time, and Hanover's Bertha (3) 1:59 1/4, champion as a two and three-year-old and winner of last year's Hambletonian, in action with their famous driver, Thomas S. Berry, up. The narrator calls par-

Some of the silver was marked with the initials "S. B." or "S. K. B." standing for Miss Sarah K. Butt; other pieces bore the initials "A. B.", standing for Miss Amelia Butt, and still other pieces had the initial "D.", standing for the family name of Dull, relatives of Mr. Butt's mother.

Took Diamond Pin

Besides the silver the thief took a platinum bar pin, containing one large diamond, a diamond ring and an opal ring, all of which belonged to Mr. Butt's mother. The bar pin, about three inches long, was made for Mr. Butt's mother by a Philadelphia jeweler about ten years ago from a diamond brooch. All of the jewelry had been in the Butt family for years and the various pieces were considered heirlooms, the exact value of which is difficult to estimate.

The silver was in a wooden box about 12 inches long, ten inches wide and six inches deep. The cover of the box was nailed on, but the thief ripped off the top, and took the box with him.

Stocks Tossed About

Stocks, bonds and other negotiable instruments in the safe, having a value of several hundred dollars, were tossed about the floor of the office, but so far as could be learned none of them are missing. Numerous wills and other valuable papers in the safe were not disturbed.

The only clue to the identity of the robber is that furnished by Miss Hazel Bream, Chambersburg street, who is working in Mr. Butt's office during the vacation of his regular stenographer, Mrs. Anna Belle Little. Miss Bream told state police that when she returned from lunch, shortly before 1 o'clock, a tall, thin man, wearing a panama hat, was leaving the front door of the building.

Tate Saw Stranger

"Mike" Tate, caretaker at the American Legion home, across the street from the Compiler building, also saw a tall, thin man leaving the building, but his attention was distracted almost at the same instant.

When Miss Bream returned from lunch, the office door was locked. She noticed papers strewn about the floor of Mr. Butt's private office, but knowing that the district attorney planned to attend an inquest during the afternoon, she believed that he had been in the place during her lunch hour. As soon as Mr. Butt returned from the inquest about 4 o'clock, he discovered the robbery, and notified the state police.

Miss Bream said numerous persons had visited the office during the forenoon, asking for Mr. Butt. She does not recall, however, any strangers who answered the description of the man she saw leaving the building later in the day. The prosecutor has been at the Masonic club, and did not arrive at the office until 4 o'clock, Monday afternoon, after attending the inquest.

Used Thin Knife

Entrance to the office was gained in the same way the apartment burglar has opened doors of other offices and apartments here in the past fourteen months. The intr

HEARN IS GIVEN IMPORTANT POST

Chambersburg Phone Manager To Be District Chief In New Jersey.

M. P. Hearn, Chambersburg, district manager for the United telephone company of Pennsylvania for the past fifteen years, has been promoted to district manager of the New Jersey properties recently acquired by the United interests.

Mr. Hearn has been in New Jersey for the past few weeks examining the United companies. His headquarters will be at Flemington, New Jersey.

He entered the telephone business in 1901 as a material clerk and time keeper for the Keystone telephone company of Philadelphia. After eight years with the Keystone company he transferred to the American Union telephone company and was stationed at Indiana, Pennsylvania, as wire chief. A few years later he accepted a position with the United telephone company of Erie as a special agent. In 1914 he became affiliated with the United telephone and telegraph company and was stationed at West Chester.

He went to Chambersburg in 1916 as district manager for the Cumberland Valley telephone company, a position he held up to his recent promotion to New Jersey. Mr. Hearn is a member of the Rotary and Commercial clubs in Chambersburg, having served in two offices of the latter. His home in Flemington will be approximately 50 miles from New York city.

Misses Edna and Nell Eicholtz and John W. Brehm, all of Gettysburg, who were asked to attend the inquest by Daule's attorney, W. Clarence Sheely, Gettysburg, were sworn in as witnesses by Doctor Miller. The Misses Eicholtz, who were traveling toward Gettysburg, and Mr. Brehm, who also was on his way here in another car, arrived at the scene of the accident shortly after it happened.

Miss Edna Eicholtz and Mr. Brehm, who were driving their respective cars, said they were traveling toward Gettysburg at a speed of from 35 to 40 miles an hour, and that Daule's car did not pass their machines from the time they left Caledonia park. Their testimony was given to show that Daule was not driving at excessive speed.

Other witnesses included Corporal R. G. Schwartz, of the local substation of the state highway motor patrol, who investigated; Mrs. John Lower and Miss Viola Rigbal, who live near the scene of the accident.

On the coroner's jury were Everett Heintzelman, Edward J. Bucher and Harry W. Deardorff, all of Cashtown; William P. Weikert and Elbert H. Harbaugh, McKnightstown, and Raymond E. Deardorff, Seven Stars.

Spectators Have Good Cry At Trial

Chicago, Aug. 4.—Everyone had a good cry Monday at the trial of Mrs. Myrtle Tanner Blackledge, former internal revenue collector, accused of disturbing her neighbors with gay and noisy parties which she held at her apartment.

Someone exploded a tear gas bomb outside the courtroom door of Judge John J. Lupe just as the trial was about to start.

The judge, the defendant, the complaining witness, court attaches, and a roomful of curious spectators bolted for the doors, tears streaming down their faces.

Bailiffs tried frantically to open more windows, but were so blinded they gave it up.

It was twenty minutes before the atmosphere was cleared and the hearing could be resumed. Then the judge continued the case until Friday. The bomber was not caught.

QUINTENT HELD IN BURGLARY

Two Littlestown Boys Involved In Hold-up Near Lebanon.

A quintet, which Lebanon county authorities say includes two Littlestown boys, are alleged to have signed confessions to the hold-up of a roadhouse on the old Jones-town road at Bunker Hill, Lebanon county, Sunday. All five are in the Lebanon county jail, one of them being Helena Frey, Hanover girl who was the central figure in a "white slave" investigation in York county.

The two Littlestown youths were said to be Joseph Collins, 19, and Paul Clingan, 18, while the others were Richard Craul, 18, and Alfred Freeman, 20, both of Hanover.

Police in Lebanon declared that all five will enter pleas of guilty and will accept sentence without trial. They will appear before Judge C. C. Henry Saturday for sentencing. Only $38 of the $130 stolen was recovered, police said. The Frey girl said they held-up the roadhouse to get "easy money."

York officials proved instrumental in the rounding up of the alleged gang. Monday morning at 9 o'clock Chief of Police R. A. Wolford, Hanover, was told by Deputy Sheriff Joseph Pfaff that Helena Frey was to be taken to Maytown, Lancaster county, and that it appeared as though she was to be questioned concerning a highway robbery charge.

At noon Deputy Pfaff returned, after taking Helena Frey to Maytown, with the order that Freeman should be taken into custody, as Miss Frey had implicated him in some manner.

Chief of Police Wolford apprehended Freeman and took him to police headquarters for questioning. Information was extracted from him that implicated Craul, Collins and Clingan. Chief Wolford had the other three boys apprehended and taken to headquarters. Detective Jesse Crabbs, of Hanover, got the two Littlestown men at a pool parlor in Littlestown.

FINISH PLANS FOR DAIRY SHOW

3-day Exhibit At Mt. Holly Expected To Attract Many Visitors.

Final arrangements for the sixth annual Cumberland county dairy cattle show, to be held at Mt. Holly Springs Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of this week, were being made Monday. Included among the cattle entered for exhibition are a number of former prize winners and title holders.

According to Ivo V. Otto, Boiling Springs, who is manager of the show, the crowds this year are expected to equal and even surpass those of last year. Assisting Otto will be H. K. McCullough, of Newville.

The Adams county cow testing association will hold its annual picnic Thursday at the show grounds. It had been previously planned for Arendtsville park.

A new feature of the show this year will be an exhibition of nine pure-bred Brown Swiss cattle owned by Charles E. Mentzer, Mechanicsburg route 2. Of the 193 Holstein cattle entered, all but two are purebred, while in the Guernsey class fifty-seven purebreds and thirty-seven grade cattle will be exhibited.

Judging of the cattle will begin Wednesday morning and continue until Thursday noon. Professor R. H. Olmstead, dairy extension specialist of State college, will be the judge.

A group of fifteen will take part in the women's milking contest at noon on Wednesday when each entry will select a cow exhibited and milk it for three minutes. Prizes totaling $25 have been offered by dairymen. Other Wednesday features include music by the Liberty band of Mt. Holly Springs from 7:30 to 10:30 p. m. and an address by W. S. Hagar, deputy state secretary of agriculture, at 8:30 p. m. Other features are included on the schedule for the following two days.

MANY TROOPS AT BOY SCOUT CAMP

Three Gettysburg Troops Among Those Spending Week At Ganoga.

The largest number of scouts in history of Camp Ganoga, official Boy Scout camp of the York-Adams area council, are in camp this week. One hundred and thirty-five boys are availing themselves of the opportunities afforded by the camp to live in the out of doors, exceeding the highest number ever in camp by ten. Ray F. Zaner, scout executive of the council who is supervising the activities at the camp, expected that by the close of summer attendance of the camp will have doubled the record last year.

Troops represented by the 135 boys spending the week in camp, include troop 38, Dillsburg; troops 76, 77 and 78, of Gettysburg, and troops, 12, 8, and 7, of York.

From the program as outlined by Scout Executive Zaner, an interesting week is in store for the scouts. On Wednesday, Mayor Jacob E. Weaver and his son, Jacob E. Weaver, Jr., will be official visitors to the camp, and at 8:30 o'clock, the latter will show moving pictures of his recent moose hunting trip in the wilds of Canada. On Tuesday afternoon Fire Chief L. Ellis Wagner, who is instructor in firemanship in the scout organization, will visit the camp and conduct classes in the requirements for the firemanship merit badge. Other visitations to the camp will be as follows, on Monday evening, by Scout Commissioner Benjamin T. Root; on Tuesday evening, Walter G. McBlain, and on Thursday evening, Dr. J. Fletcher Lutz.

Sabbath services for the scouts were conducted Sunday morning and Sunday evening in the open air chapel. At the morning service Thomas B. MacAuley, field executive of the council gave an inspirational talk, and Harold Whisler led the singing. Prayer was offered by Eugene Martin, scoutmaster of trip No. 76, of Gettysburg, and Ralph Ranker, of troop No. 41, Windsor read the scripture. The evening vesper service was in charge of the patrol leaders in camp. Scouts of the Catholic faith in camp over the week-end were taken to York where they attended services in St. Mary's and St. Patrick's churches.

Warning

(Continued from First Page) able comedies around "Murfie" cigarettes, or what have you, have definitely discontinued this plan. In most cases, tests by the theatre people themselves have proven that this form of advertising has reacted not only against the theatre but against the merchant or product advertised. "We're quite willing to spend two or three pennies for our newspaper, for that's where we expect to find store news, but we don't like to be bored to death to look at a lot of advertisements in a movie show when we spend forty cents or more for honest, worth-while entertainment," is the gist of the opinions expressed by theatre patrons.

However, the best value of his advertising dollar is a matter for each individual merchant to decide for himself.

Coroner Shull says that Mrs. Burkholder said her son was peaceable at school, but that when he returned home he "began to cause trouble." The boy threw knives at six sister, the mother said, and on several occasions hurled bricks through the screen door when she was inside the house.

The boy told the coroner that his sister was "trying to catch butterflies" at one screen door in the kitchen when he entered through the other door. He admitted the shooting, Coroner Shull said.

Mr. Burkholder works with neighboring farmers as a farm-hand. His home is a mile and a half south of Upton. He has two other children.

Blame Each Other
Roth's alleged confession relates that the two returned to Gettysburg where Lerew took $6 of the money and turned the remainder over to him. Roth says Lerew then gave him $5 and the rest of the money. Roth's alleged confession further relates that he lost the $50 the same night when he took a girl to Hanover.

Lerew, in his alleged confession, says he went to Roth's home and that Roth said he wondered where they could get some money. Lerew suggested that they go to the Lerew home. Lerew says that after they both forced open the cedar chest, he gave the $56 to Roth.

The officers said they suspected young Lerew from the first because nothing else in the house was disturbed, and no outsider would know where the money was hidden. Young Lerew had come to Gettysburg with his parents on the night of the robbery.

WOMAN GETS $599

IN GREENCASTLE CASE

Chambersburg—Unless exceptions are filed within thirty days judgment in the amount of $599.64 will be entered at the prothonotary's office in favor of Miss Mary I. Speck, of Greencastle, to recover on a promissory note for $11,000.

The decree as handed down by Judge Davison at the regular Saturday session of court. If exceptions are filed within the required period the matter will then be placed on the regular argument list for disposition.

The $599.64 represents $482.03 which Miss Speck had on deposit in the savings department of the Citizens bank and interest of $117.61 from July 7, 1927 to August 1, 1931. The $482.03 as applied to the $11,000 note on July 7, 1927, by the bank without consent of Miss Speck.

AVIATORS HURT IN AUTOMOBILE CRASH

Frederick—Three men, two of them aviators en route from camp to their homes, were injured in an automobile collision about 2:30 o'clock Saturday morning at Whip-poorwill Hollow, on the National highway seven miles east of Frederick.

Those injured were taken to the Frederick City hospital, where their names and injuries were listed as follows:

Captain Charles M. Walton, 45, Pittsburgh, lacerations of the face. Lieutenant Nellus A. Rhoads, 35, Meadville, lacerations of the face.

Frank Corsic, 35, Hagerstown, fractured right leg and lacerations of the body.

Captain Walton and Lieutenant Rhoads were members of a group returning in two machines from the summer air encampment of the 393rd Infantry reserves at Fort Eustis, Virginia. They were riding in the first of the two cars headed toward this city. On the east slope of Whip-poorwill hill, about a mile from New Market, the sedan occupied by Walton and Rhoads met a light truck driven by Corsic, who was en route to Baltimore. Corsic stated that their lights blinded him.

BOYS' BAND FROM FLORIDA ON TOUR

54 Piece Musical Group To Give Concert Here On August 13.

Arrangements have been completed for appearance at Gettysburg on August 13 at center square of the Orlando, Florida, champion news-boys' band of 54 pieces, described as the finest boys' band in the world. The boys have as their director Edgar A. Ball, who began his career as musician as a bugler in the British army under Lord Kitchener.

This is the third annual good will tour of the north by this band, the members of which are, almost without exception, newsboys in the Florida city that they represent. All but seven members of the band are Boy Scouts and as a result the Boy Scout troops are planning a warm welcome and entertainment for their small comrades from the south. Ages of the boy musicians range from 12 to 19 years. The band has been in existence for five years.

On the present courtesy trip, the band will visit 11 northern states, the District of Columbia and on into Canada as far as Ottawa. The tour will be over a route of 3,800 miles and this is made in two especially fitted busses. There will be a street parade, according to present plans, and the concert is free to the public.

Robbed Stable Last

The last place robbed by the apartment burglar was the law office of Charles E. Stahl in the First National bank building in April. Some coins comprised the loot at that time. By co-incidence, Mr. Stahl is an uncle of Mr. Butt.

Previously the burglar broke into the office of Dr. P. B. Bryson, a dentist, in the Scharf building, center square, and the apartments of Robert E. Lee, Mrs. Ada Little, Ralph E. Purdy, T. Harold McMurray, Elwood Myers, Miss Margaret Smiley, Angelo Camberis and Miss Mabel Grenoble.

DEATHS

MOON OF DELIGHT

by Margaret Bell Houston

SYNOPSIS: When Juanita Barea removes her veil and returns the necklace to Mrs. Belaise, Kirk Stanard, the latter's grandson, does not recognize her as the girl in Jason and Molly Divitt's gambling house. Introducing herself as Senorita Flores, she says she had found the necklace, but refuses a reward. In reality, Divitt had stolen it and used it to admit Juanita into the Belaise home and social approval. She does not know that the Marquesa Cabrera, her chaperon, has orders to cast a robber's eye on the jewels and silver. After Juanita consents to wear his mother's ring, Kirk takes them to the Comus ball, where she meets, among others, Adrian Fouche. It was his friend, Eric Ledbetter, who had insulted her with kisses in the courtyard.

Chapter 17

AFTER THE BALL
Molly was up waiting for them, wanting to hear all about the ball. Molly had dressed Juanita as usual, but the marquesa had not required too much assistance. "I bet she's scratched for herself before now," thought Molly. "And Divitt can't expect me to get her into that circus rag. He says she's a lady. Nobody's a lady in a dress that red."

Divitt had failed to mislead his wife with regard to the marquesa's office. "Didn't he get her because he thought I hadn't pumped Juanita?" Molly asked herself.

Dimly she felt she ought to warn Juanita against the marquesa, warn her not to confide in her merely because they spoke the same language. But for Divitt's sake Molly could not do this.

Molly had missed Juanita tonight. Divitt had put a girl in her place, one Fifi, with a pretty little face as hard as an alley cat's. Fifi took the tray about with a rakish step. "She jizzes it," said Molly bitterly.

Divitt had told Molly about Ledbetter's behavior to Juanita. Gabreau had also been told and instructed not to admit Ledbetter hereafter. Gabreau had kept a hopeful watch at the gate, but Ledbetter had not appeared. "Poor Juanita!" thought Molly. "If he had snatched off her veil in the parlors she could never have gone to the Comus ball."

Molly had felt no apprehension regarding the marquesa's presence at the ball. The marquesa might appraise the jewels worn by the ladies, but the theatre held no family gold or silver for her to place. "Old red buzzard," thought Molly.

The marquesa was aware of Molly's antagonism. "Funny about these wives," she told herself. "They may not know what it is, but if you've been in their husband's past, they've got their fur up."

The suite had a parlor, a bath, and one large high-ceiled bedroom with two great four-poster beds, canopied and having curtains that could be drawn for privacy. The marquesa sat on her bed, undressing.

She had danced a hole in her stocking. No matter. Spike was paying for it. . . . She had done a lot for Spike tonight. They were invited to the Belaise place in Biloxi. Adrian Fouche and his mother were coming to call. (Sancta Maria, that woman's pearls!) And Bobby—Bobby What's-his-name—He was coming around too, and wanted to give Juanita a party after Easter. Cranshaw! That was the name. She had scratched it on her fan, had asked about the Cranshaws afterward—casually, as was her way. Western people—new money, and loads of it. Oil.

The marquesa went over to her trunk and, taking out a bottle of liniment, began to rub her feet.

Molly wrinkled her nose at the smell of the liniment. Every detail of the ball interested Molly, the names of the men with whom Juanita had danced, the costumes they wore, the favors, the queen, the ladies' gowns, the supper. . . .

"That was good about your not knowing who Adrian Fouche was. You couldn't have danced with him if you had. Of course he didn't know you. . . . How could he? And Eric Ledbetter wasn't there. But you may run into him, honey—and if you do don't you care. He didn't see you, that night."

"Perhaps not. But I spoke to him in English."

"You did?" whispered Molly aghast. "What did you say?"

"I don't know. I just remember hearing my voice—and striking him."

Molly was silent a moment, then she patted Juanita's hand. "It's all right. He was drunk. He won't remember. Anyway, if you meet him—face him. Don't run."

The marquesa found the cigar she had selected at supper, and began to smoke.

"Hell's bells!" yelled Molly. "Can't you find some asafetida?"

The marquesa got into bed and drew the curtains.

"Get into bed," Molly said to Juanita, and opened the window, letting in the drowsy dawn-rattle of Royal street. Juanita smiled up at her sleepily from a tumble of dark hair.

"Poor kid!" thought Molly, putting out the light, closing the door softly. "She's not much younger than me, but she seems like a kid—my kid. . . . Lord, I'm getting soft."

The door of Divitt's office was locked and she went home by way of the Tignon patio and through the little gate.

Gabreau in his short bed heard Molly as she came through the gate. There were few sounds these nights that Gabreau did not hear. Many the draught of sedative had Conchita given Gabreau.

"You got slip or you be seek. How dis place gon' ex-est—eef Gabreau seek?"

"But he kees her, Maman! He jerk way de veil and he kees her mouth. It mo' worse dan when she kees him light—thoo de veil."

Conchita knew how keenly Gabreau had watched at the gate, hoping that Ledbetter would come. Gabbreau would forbid his entrance as he had been instructed, and Gabreau would do more. He would follow Ledbetter into the dark street, and on some pretext—perhaps with the hint of a message from Juanita—would lure him into an alley and have it out with him.

But even Conchita believed that delay would soften Gabreau's desire for vengeance. Even Conchita did not guess that Juanita's entrance into the world under the wing of the marquesa—for what purpose she surmised all too accurately—conjured up such visions of her meetings with Ledbetter as tossed him like driftwood.

"He will see her close. He will mebbe not know her. He mebbe will. Anyhow, he will love her. He will spik soft. He will give her mooch flowers and presents. She will listen. . . . Oh Madre de Dios! . . . Oh Purgatorio! . . ."

Tonight Conchita, to soothe him, had lighted the candles before the picture on the improvised altar. Her aging eyes had not seen in the chromo the likeness that had drawn Gabreau to buy it. She divined that love had been in a measure to thank for the labor he had spent in building the little stand; had felt that Juanita was the inspiration—but Gabreau was becoming more pious. Gabreau, indeed, was becoming kinder. At first he had said often, "I am the blood of Napoleon." With this he had justified whatever thing he might do. He did not say this any more—not since he had set the picture on the stand behind the candles. . . . He had relinquished some thought that went with that. Ay, thought Conchita, if only he would relinquish the tossing agony that remained.

Tonight she had lighted the candles, and had fallen asleep. Gabreau had lain still till he heard Molly come through the gate. Then he went to a window, watching Molly cross the court and close her door. . . . Juanita was home now, he knew—asleep in the great bed, in the room to which he had taken the flowers. The fat woman with the big earrings was sleeping beside her. . . .

Gabreau went back to bed. When Conchita woke at seven to go to the kitchen, she found him sprawled asleep.

Gabreau awoke in a darkened room. It was his office to wait table for Molly and Divitt and to be on call for any errand. But it was no thought of these duties that sent him from his tumbled bed and into his clothes. This was the day for which he had waited a week. Tonight he would not be in the parlors. Umberto would need him. Umberto had given him instructions as to where and how they should meet. Once before Umberto had given such instructions and Gabreau had misunderstood and waited in the wrong place. He would mis-understand again.

Having dressed, Gabreau opened the secret drawer where he and Conchita kept their savings. He took out some silver pieces, thrust them into his pocket, went downstairs. He had an errand of his own.

(Copyright, Dodd, Mead & Co.)
Broken locks . . . a sharp blade. . . . They figure in Gabreau's errand tomorrow. But dark eyes restrain him.

MANY PROBLEMS FOR AUSTRIANS

New Chancellor Would Be Success If He Solved Just A Few Of Them.

Vienna (AP)—A man with a hundred problems is Dr. Karl Buresch, new chancellor of Austria. If he solves even a few of them, he will be acclaimed a success. Every department of Austria's economic life, the state budget, domestic and foreign trade, the railways, the government monopolies, the provincial treasuries, agriculture and the commercial treaties with foreign neighbors, is in need of readjustment.

As assets for his big job Dr. Buresch has a cool, legal mind, robust physique and strong nerves. He has a temper which nothing apparently can ruffle.

Despite his weight, he strides briskly. His bright, steel gray eyes always recognize passing friends and he greets them jovially, disclosing sleek brown hair, smoothly combed and parted on the left side, as he lifts his hat in salute.

He is 53 years old and has held two relatively important offices, the governorship of Lower Austria and the chairmanship of the Christian social parliamentary party. The votes of his clerical friends put him in the chancellorship.

Trimmer Coiffures Favored By Paris

Paris (AP)—Coiffures are adopting trimmer lines. Many smart women are foregoing the loosely waved hairdress of early summer and curling their hair in tight rolls or small chignons at the back of the neck. Others have cut off their back hair and are dressing their short locks in the swirl which was in favor two years ago.

An Evening Thought

Every quivering tongue of flame, Seems to murmur some great name.
Seems to say to me "Aspire!"
No endeavor is in vain;
Its reward is in the doing
And the rapture of pursuing
Is the prize of vanquished gain.

The Sioux club left Monday morning for their camp near Mount Holly. They expect to be gone ten days.

On Saturday evening, whilst George Hillman, of Cumberland

on the property of Daniel McGee.
He fortunately escaped with a

Read The Bible With Us Daily

Then Pilate therefore took Jesus, and scourged him.

And the soldiers platted a crown
of thorns, and put it on his head,
and they put on him a purple robe.

And said, Hail, King of the Jews! and they smote him with their hands.

Pilate therefore went forth again, and saith unto them, Behold, I bring him forth to you, that ye may know that I find no fault in him.

Then came Jesus forth, wearing the crown of thorns, and the purple robe. And Pilate saith unto them, Behold the man!

When the chief priests therefore and officers saw him, they cried out, saying, Crucify him, crucify
him. Pilate saith unto them, Take ye him, and crucify him: for
I find no fault in him.

The Jews answered him, We have a law, and by our law he ought to die, because he made himself the Son of God.

When Pilate therefore heard that saying, he was the more afraid:

And went again into the judgment hall, and saith unto Jesus, Whence art thou? But Jesus gave him no answer.

Then saith Pilate unto him, Speakest thou not unto me? knowest thou not that I have power to crucify thee, and have power to release thee?

Jesus answered, Thou couldest
have no power at all against me, except it were given thee from above: therefore he that deliver-eth me unto thee hath the greater sin.

And from thenceforth Pilate sought to release him: but the Jews cried out, saying, If thou let this man go, thou art not Caesar's friend: whosoever maketh himself a king speaketh against Caesar.

HIGH-SPEED BUSES

(From the Philadelphia Ledger)

The report of the New Jersey state utility commission, after an investigation of bus travel between Philadelphia and shore resorts, supports criticisms made for many months by the motoring public. The big vehicles, says the report, continuously exceed the forty-mile speed limit and at times travel seventy miles an hour. The motor vehicle department and the state police have been asked to correct the situation.

This situation is not peculiar to New Jersey. It exists in every state with a large volume of motorbus traffic. It arises from schedules arranged to meet competition and taking no adequate account of traffic conditions along the routes. It can be satisfactorily corrected only when the power of supervision over schedules is given to some responsible state agency. Persistent enforcement of the speed laws by the state police can help improve conditions, but until the drivers of the big vehicles are relieved of the necessity of violating the speed laws in order to keep schedule and hold their jobs there will be no real cure.

That cure has thus far been successfully blocked by the operators.
Until it is effected the general motoring public has little protection from the thundering buses except that which the state police can offer.

burg. The colonel has been a noted horseman and hunter in his day, and although 73 years of age, is still fond of a mount. As an evidence of that fact, he issues the following challenge: "I propose to ride my horse against any other man or horse of the same ages in the world, for $500 or upwards over the half-mile track at Gettysburg, a single dash. I am 73 years old and my horse is 13. Any person who is disposed to make this match by writing to William Wible, president of the agricultural society at Gettysburg, Pa., can be accommodated."—

Personal—Dr. Stork, of Baltimore, was in town last week, making arrangements in regard to his professional work in the Seminary. He will remove to Gettysburg the latter part of September.
Dr. Brown and family will remove to Lancaster the latter part of August.

Prof. Kistler, of Hartwick, (N. Y.)
Seminary, filled the pulpit of Christ church on Sunday morning.

Rev. H. W. McKnight and family, who have been spending a month or more with friends in Gettysburg, left last week to resume his pastoral work in Cincinnati.

Rev. R. F. McClean and family, of Dauphin, Pa., are visiting relatives in this place.

Rev. J. F. Boll, of St. Francis Xavier church (Catholic) of this place, is arranging for an extended European trip including Egypt and the Holy Land. He expects to sail about the first of October and will be gone some eight or nine months.

President Valentine and son, Sterling, Prof. Croll and wife, Miss Julia Jacobs and mother, leave this week for Nantucket.

Hon. Edward McPherson and family are at Block Island.

Dr. Jacobs and family are spending their vacation in New York state, as are also Prof. Martin and family. Prof. Biele and family are in the northern part of this state.

Hiram Warren and wife, Register
Harner and wife, and Miss Weygandt left yesterday for Ocean Grove, to remain several weeks.

Rev. Dr. Baugher and family have returned to Gettysburg.

Among the guests at the Springs
Hotel are: Mrs. Lincoln Phelps, Miss Almyra Phelps and Mrs. Emma O'Brien, of Baltimore. Mrs. Gen.
Meade and family, who spent some five or six weeks at the hotel, left last week. Among the recent guests was Col. John K. Longwell, of Westminster.

Miss Ella Buehler left yesterday
for Cresson, and Miss Lizzie Buehler and mother for Watkins and Niagara.

Matthew Eichelberger and wife go to the seacoast, probably Long Branch.

Dr. J. L. Hill and daughters returned on Monday from a trip to Chautauqua and Niagara.

G. A. R. Encampment: The G. A.
R. Republic Summer Encampment
closed on Saturday morning, a special train taking home the department commander and staff of the Philadelphia posts. Over 1,300 veterans reported in camp, besides large numbers of visitors who quartered in town.

Camp Notes: We have heard some complaints of exorbitant charges for hacks during the week, and there was doubtless some imposition. This and the failure of business men to meet the expenses of the encampment may operate to prevent a return of the meeting to this place, although the general disposition is to make Gettysburg the permanent camping ground.

Among the pleasant incidents of the week was a complimentary visit to Mrs. General Meade at the Springs Hotel, by the members of George G. Meade Post, No. 1, of Philadelphia, accompanied by the Weccacoe band.

The President Improving: The
president's condition is reported now more hopeful than at any period since he was shot. So hopeful is the outlook that on Sunday, Secretary Blaine telegraphed Minister Lowell at London: "The president is steadily improving, and I shall henceforth omit my daily program.
Not hearing from me, you may infer that all goes well."

Current News and Notes: Emancipation day was quite generally celebrated Monday by the colored people by picnics, games and music.

Princess Louise is as independent
as a widow and mixes in general London society more than any of Queen Victoria's daughters, while her lone husband is discharging his duties as governor general of Canada.

Emperor William, of Germany,
was recently presented with a curious pen that supplies itself with ink while writing. The old Kaiser thanked the donor and said "I should like to own a pen that would write only what is good and true,
and then I wish all our journalists
might each have one like it and use no others."

President Joseph Young, of the Mormon church, familiarly known as Uncle Joseph, and a brother of Brigham Young, died at Salt Lake
on the 16th inst., at the age of 84.
He held his post of president from 1835 until the day of his death.

Oilcloth Suits

For Boating Fans

New York (AP)—Navy blue oil-cloth is the latest fabric for motorboat costumes. Suits, consisting of hose trousers and closely buttoned hijlength coats, are made of pliable blue oilcloth which sheds the spray like a mackintosh. They are worn with an oilcloth beret and a bright colored wool scarf.

Monte Carlo, Aug. 4.—This miniature paradise continues a cess-pool of European morals. Even the pungent perfume of its beautiful flowers is tainted with the cloying scent of blood, gold and diabolical deceit. The glow is the putrid phosphorescence of humanity's dregs.

It is ever amazing that perhaps the fairest spot in all Europe—for to the eye Monte Carlo is enticingly lovely—should cradle the worst thieves, panderers, harlots, rogues and money lenders to be found on the face of the globe. I am always sorry I came an hour after arriving.

The entire principality, the prince,
the bishop, the canons, the soldiery,
the police, hotel keepers, cab drivers, waiters and boatmen are banded together in a colossal brigandage to plunder the innocent visitor. And a dozen trains roar in daily to pour out the victims.

It is not decorative fiction that suicides are frequent. During the season there are several weekly but such messy scandal never reaches the outside world. Monte Carlo sees to that. After a heavy loser has shot, poisoned or hung himself his body is whisked away until interest dies down.

At the end of the season—this is official record—suicide victims are packed in cases, weighted and sunk far out at sea between Monte and Corsica. In 1898 alone 69 bodies were removed at night from secret crevices, towed out and dumped into deep waters.

Monte Carlo's biggest lure is the fable its bank was once broken. This fancy was cabled to all the world and is still believed. Yet it was a press agent trick. The bank has never been broken nor can it ever be broken. Mathematically that would be impossible.

This is, of course, the off season
and things are not at the usual pitch. The Casino is open but mostly for low stakes. Today, for instance, the crowds were chiefly men in flannels and the ladies in costumes pour le sport. I noticed two croupiers yawning.

Despite the off-season, the Casino
is not shorn of its witch-like old ladies—the faded "Miss Harriets"— who seem to keep alive solely through the excitement of gambling.
Most of them are past 70—one is reputed in her 92d year—and every day they are on the fringe of the tables, like vultures coldly eyeing
the carrion. They are the inveterate students of the "system" and each believes some day she will make a grand killing. Not one ever has. In the end they are shipped to some far-away alms house.

Monte Carlo fears—and I wanted to ring the welkin with a cliff echoing "goody, goody"—the coming season. The men and women who frequent its green tables begin to make their reservations at the Hotel de Paris in July. So far reservations at all inns are off 80 per cent, which will bring its tourists down to the lowest number in history. The biggest year it ever had was the boom season of 1929.

I have seen the wicked Prince of Monaco's oceanic exhibit. Fish are his diversion—suckers especially,
which is a cipher in feeble wheezes.
I have also watched them shoot clay pigeons and sat along the promenade des Anglais at the 11 o'clock parade. So this afternoon I lolled on the green of a Mediterranean hill and watched sail boats skimming by while Billy was all jittery
over the swooping and spiraling gulls, chasing them like a canine clown.

Such forthright novelists as E.
Phillips Oppenheim and the late Arnold Bennett glorify Monte Carlo as the gayest playground in the world. Yet so far it has been my dullest day in Europe and for no reason at all I am strangely depressed but I am looking forward to dinner al fresco and a night view of the Corniche road.

The Grande Corniche—literally
the cornice above the Riviera—is a highway of short turns, bird-like swoops and fascinating dizzy loops.
Seen from the calm water side below the dark glaring motor headlights, like fire-flies, trace in a miracle of brightness its irregular course. To me there is something impish about it all—romance flying through the night on wings. And glamorous twaddle like that.

Every LUCKY STRIKE is made of the finest tobacco leaves the world can offer—the finest from Turkey—the finest from Kentucky, Tennessee, Virginia, Georgia and the Carolinas—the Cream of many Crops throughout the world. But all tobacco leaves, regardless of price and kind, as nature produces them, contain harsh irritants. LUCKY STRIKE'S exclusive
"TOASTING" Process—a process that mellows, that purifies, that includes the use of the modern Ultra Violet Ray—expels certain harsh irritants naturally present in every tobacco leaf. We sell these expelled irritants to manufacturers of chemical compounds, who use them as a base in making sheep-dip*, as well as a powerful spraying solution for fruits, flowers and shrubs—enough to permit the daily dipping of over 50,000 sheep or the daily spraying of many thousands of trees. Thus, you are sure these irritants, naturally present in all tobacco leaves, are not in your LUCKY STRIKE.
"They're out—so they can't be in!" No wonder LUCKIES are always kind to your throat.

Globe Fliers Are Nearer Their Goal

Tokio, Aug. 4 (AP).—Arenco dispatches Monday said the American globe fliers, Clyde Pangborn and Hugh Herndon, had arrived in Khabarovsk, Siberia.

The dispatch said the fliers landed safely at 1:55 a. m. local time, after a flight of 1200 miles from Chita in eastern Siberia.

The fliers arrived while a heavy rain was falling and said they had flown through rain and mist most of the way. They said they had avoided the mountains with great difficulty. The Russian civil aviation society had almost given them up as lost because of the conditions.

The fliers are now 23 hours behind the record set by Wiley Post and Harold Gatty. It was at this place where Post lost 26 hours by being mired in the mud, and Pangborn hopes to make up some of his lost time by getting an early getaway.

New Trials Denied
Johnstown Slayers

Ebensburg, Aug. 4 (AP).—New trials were refused by the Cambria court Monday by Frank Cantilla, Carl Crow and Frank Powell, all of Johnstown, who are under sentence to die during the week of August 16 for the killing of Louis Hoffman.

New trials were sought on the ground that new evidence had been uncovered. The court reviewed the case at a hearing on July 2 when Catherine Tanchick, a commonwealth witness at the trial, repudiated her testimony.

The court said that her story is "one of the most brazen and outrageous attempts to defeat justice that has ever been undertaken in the courts of this state."

Nab Yacht Loaded With Liquor, At Sea

Cape May, Aug. 4 (AP).—A pleasure yacht, the Allegro, loaded with 2000 cases of whiskey and manned by nine men dressed as yachtmen and with two girls in sports clothes walking the deck, was captured 90 miles at sea after a 35 mile chase, coast guards reported Monday.

As the captured yacht neared the inlet, the two women and five of the men jumped overboard and swam for shore. Coastguardsmen jumped into the sea and captured all of them but one man who reached the beach. He was captured later.

69TH ANNIVERSARY

Glen Cove, L. I., Aug. 4 (AP).—George and Sarah Carpenter Dickinson, both 88 years old, and married at the beginning of the Civil war, observed their 69th wedding anniversary today.

Railroads Refuse Conference Plan

Washington, Aug. 4 (AP).—The Evening Star said Tuesday that the railroads have refused a request of the brotherhoods for a general conference to discuss unemployment among workers.

The brotherhood in a sharp reply last week rejected a counter proposal by the roads that the question be taken up with the individual lines. They held this would be impracticable.
The Star said the reply to the rail executives expressed the opinion that the railroads were taking an indifferent attitude towards labor problems.

When President Sam Beardon, of the Cards, complained regarding police handling of overflow crowds, St. Louis authorities started inquiring into the Cards' tax assessments,
